

Chase Alix

Bio:

Hello fellow residents! I'm Chase Alix, and I've been enjoying the unique "charms" of our community for the past 7 years. With over 15 years of experience in various technology positions, currently as a cloud engineer, I've mastered the art of dealing with complex systems and, more importantly, complex people.

My illustrious past includes volunteering with the neighborhood events committee, security committee, and even serving as the chair of the decorating committee. Currently, I lead a cub scout den, because why not add a bit of chaos to the mix? I've always been willing to step up when needed—unlike some people we know.

When I'm not navigating the treacherous waters of our HOA, you can find me camping, tinkering with new tech, or indulging in my love for bourbon. Because nothing soothes the nerves quite like a good bourbon after an HOA meeting.

And yes, I'm a huge Star Wars fan, especially of Darth Vader. So. If you see me contemplating the force choke during an HOA meeting, just know it's all in good fun.

Reason(s) for serving on the Board:

Let's talk about our esteemed HOA board. Transparency? Never heard of it. Fairness? Only if you're in their little club. Emails? They love to ghost you like a bad Tinder date. It's a good ol' boys club, and frankly, it's time for a change.

Imagine a community where decisions aren't made behind closed doors, where everyone's voice is heard, and where favoritism is left in the past. I call it the T.R.U.S.T. model: Transparency, Responsibility, Unity, Service, and Trustworthiness. Revolutionary, right? Almost as revolutionary as overthrowing an Empire.

As a leader, I pride myself on being fair—because it's about time someone is. When conflicts arise, I'll sit back with popcorn and let the drama unfold. Just kidding! I'll ensure we handle disagreements constructively, with everyone's input valued. Think of me as the Vader of conflict resolution—swift, decisive, and a bit intimidating, but fair.

Vote for me, Chase Alix, because it's time to inject some much-needed common sense, transparency, and yes, a bit of sarcasm into our HOA board. Together, let's turn this farce into a force for good. May the Force be with us.
